Emma Parks

Senior, University of Washington

Emma is working toward her Construction Management degree at the University of Washington. She is the vice president of the AGC student chapter, a member of the 2016 NECA competition team, and the captain of the 2016 mixed-use Reno competition team.

Spending time on her father's construction sites inspired her interest in the built environments at a young age. She discovered the Construction Management program during her freshmen year after taking an introductory Construction Management course, and was immediately interested in pursuing a career in the industry. She has worked for BNBuilders as an intern for the last year on the Denny Hall renovation. Prior to working for BNBuilders, Emma spent six months interning for Ballard Lofts LLC, a mixed-used development located in the Ballard neighborhood of Seattle.

She has thoroughly enjoyed learning about the complexities of managing a historic renovation and looks forward to learning about different challenges in other industry sectors.

Regardless of any title, Emma's long-term goal after graduation is to become an innovative and adept leader in the construction industry. In her spare time, she enjoys running, indoor cycling, and spending time with family.
