David Vo

Senior, University of Washington

My name is David Vo, and I am working toward my Construction Management degree at the University of Washington. I am a member of the AGC student chapter, as well as the MCA and the ASC Reno Mixed-Use competition teams.

I started my education at Cascadia College and in 2016, transferred to the University of Washington where I was admitted into the Construction Management program. I became interested in construction at a very young age. I was inspired by my uncle who has worked in the construction industry for the past 20 years. Since then, I have always dreamed of building the next Seattle basketball arena or the world's next iconic landmark building.

I began my construction career interning with MainVue Homes and have been interning at Venture General Contracting since January 2017, where I have been exposed to many different exciting projects.

My long-term goal is to be a great project engineer and one day, to be a great project manager. In my spare time, I enjoy target shooting, archery, fishing, and spending time with family and friends.
