Tucker Jones

Senior, Washington State University

My name is Tucker Jones, and I am working toward my Construction Management degree and Business Administration minor at Washington State University. I grew up in Yakima with two older brothers and a younger sister.

I serve as the president of the Design Build Institute of America Student Chapter (DBIA), and am also an active member of the Associated Students in Construction Management and Mechanical Contractors Association of America (MCAA) student chapters. I plan to participate in both the ASC and DBIA student competitions in the coming year.

I have been interested in construction for as long as I can remember. However, I did not start pursuing a career in this field until the 2015-2016 school year. My first construction experience came last year when I interned for Andersen Construction, working on a three-phase apartment complex in Issaquah. I accepted a second internship with Andersen Construction this summer and am currently working on the remodel of Harborview Medical Center's Pharmacy.

Upon graduation, I hope to work in commercial construction with a mid-sized company, preferably in the Pacific Northwest. However, my ultimate goal is to eventually start my own construction company in central Washington that focuses on real-estate development.

Additionally, Tucker was a recipient of the following 2016-2017 AGC Education Foundation Scholarships: the Robert McEachern Memorial Scholarship, and the Employees of J.R. Abbott Construction Training & Education Scholarship.
