Travis Frederick

Senior, University of Washington

My name is Travis Frederick and I am pursuing a degree in construction management at the University of Washington. I am a member of the American Concrete Institute (ACI) student chapter and am the captain of the 2020 ASC Reno mixed-use team. I am also a member of the University of Washington construction management honor society.

My interest in construction began at the age of 19 when I accepted a job as an apprentice carpenter. I loved solving real problems, putting my hands on the work I was doing, and learning how to work efficiently and professionally. Now I hope to transition into the management side of the construction industry. I am confident that a degree in construction management will enable me to progress and grow in any company I work for.

I recently started an internship at Skanska, and plan to continue to work for Skanska for the foreseeable future. I also work as a freelance carpenter on the weekends. My long-term goal is to work in an executive role at an established general contractor.

In my spare time, I enjoy hiking, boating, watching sports, spending time with friends and family, and playing guitar, golf, and basketball.
